

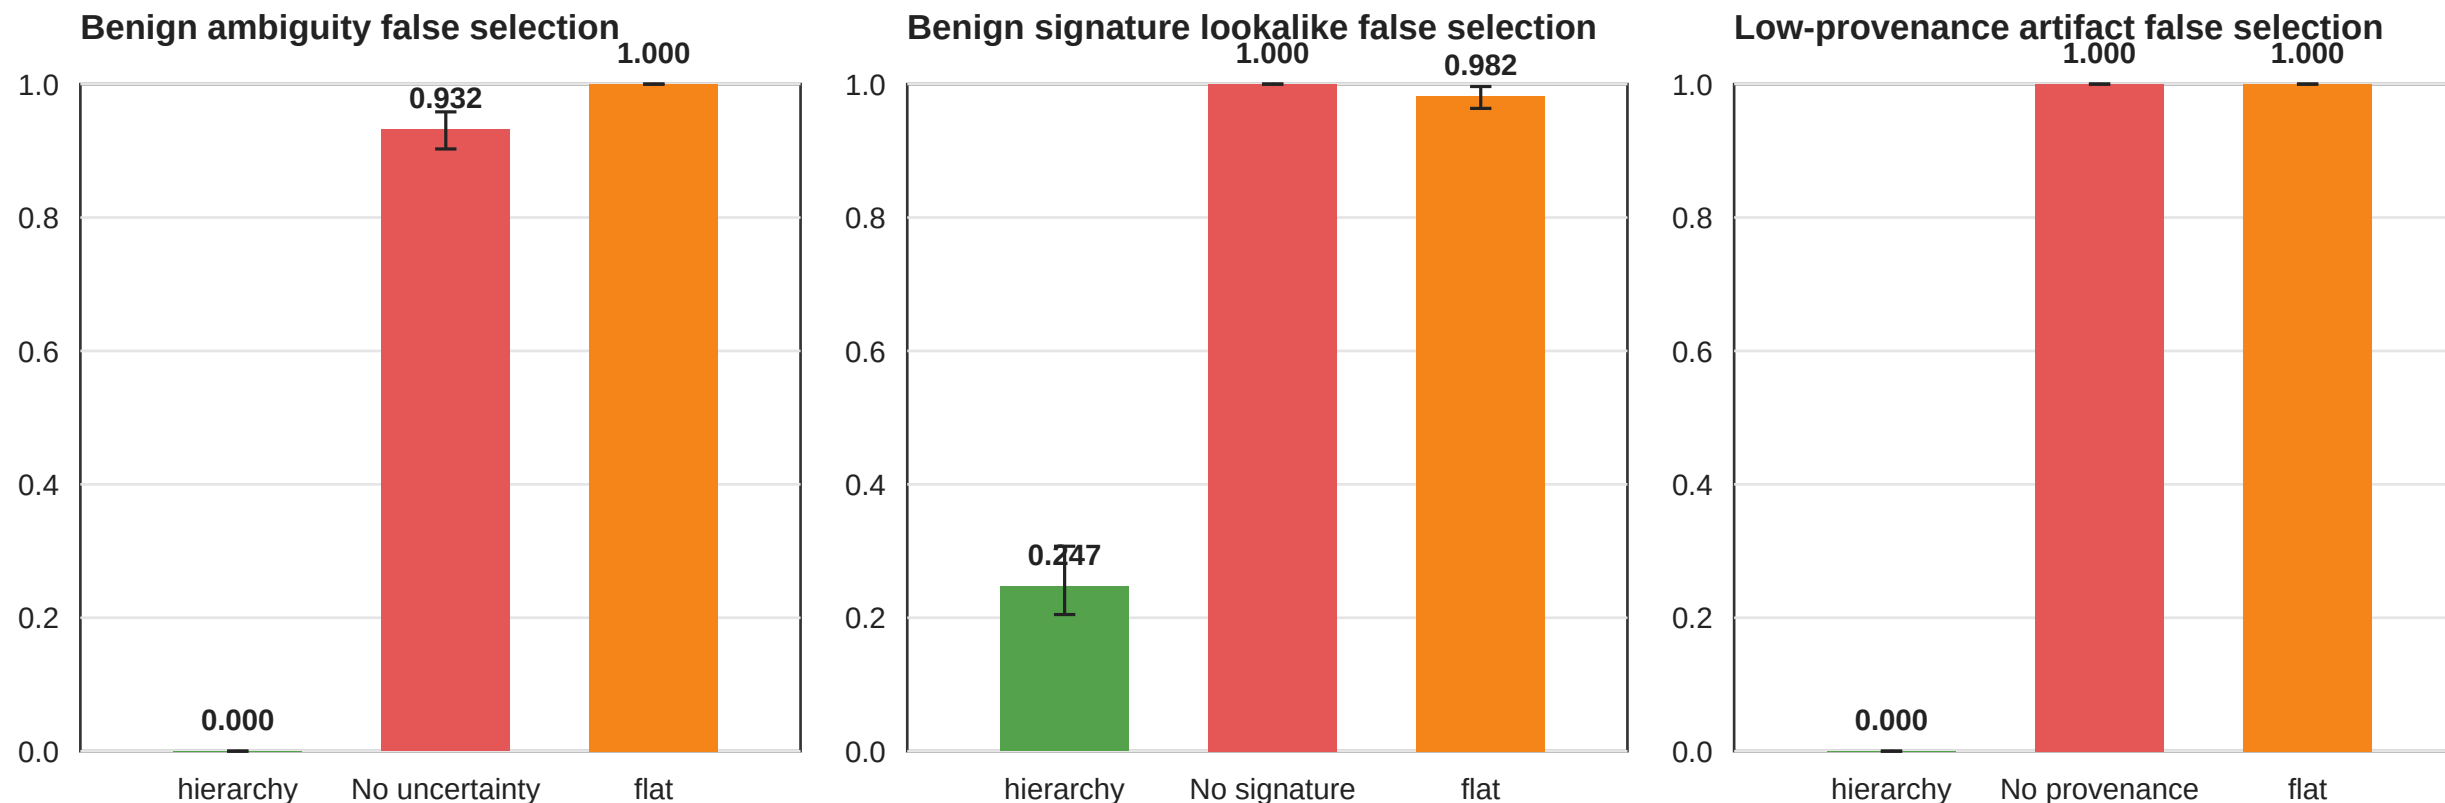

Figure 2. Targeted ablations expose distinct hierarchical-state failure modes

Each panel is a matched hard-negative case. A high bar means the method falsely routes benign accounts for review. The full learned hierarchy stays near zero; removing the required state component recreates the intended failure mode.